

Jason Wright

Jason Wright is an Associate Professor of Astronomy & Astrophysics at the Center for Exoplanets and Habitable Worlds at Penn State University. He studies stars, the planets that orbit them, and does work with artifact SETI. He teaches a graduate course in SETI as part of Penn State's Dual-Title Astrobiology PhD program. He is Project Scientist for NEID, a joint NASA/NSF planet-finding spectrograph at Kitt Peak National Observatory.